Gladstone's Home Rule Bill in Commons.

The Vote Stood 311 for, to 341 Against—London Press Comment.

An Attempt Made to Mob Lord Hartington After the Adjournment of the House.

DOWNED

Gladstone's Home Rule Bill by a Vote of 341 to 311.

LONDON, June 8.—The vote on home rule bill last night was 311 for the measure and 341 against it. Mr. Gladstone moved an adjournment until Thursday and the motion was adopted.

The majority against the bill surprised even the unionists. Several members supposed to favor the bill went into the opposition lobby. The crowd outside attempted to mob Lord Hartington when he emerged from the house. After the division eighty-five Parnellites voted with the government. About twelve liberals refused to vote on the division. LONDON, June 8.—There is intense excitement throughout the whole country over the outcome of the parliamentary contest. The conservatives and whigs are everywhere making the day one of jubilee.

At Belfast, Londonderry and other towns the loyalists have been stoned during their parades and demonstrations.

THE CABINET WILL CONSIDER.

LONDON, June 8.—The cabinet will meet this afternoon to consider what action is incumbent on the government as a result of their defeat last night.

PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, June 8.—The Standard says: "The house of commons, by defeating the home rule bill has saved itself from degradation and the empire from disruption. It has also read a lesson to Ireland, which, after the first irritation has subsided, will, we trust, be duly appreciated by the quick-witted inhabitants of that island. Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Parnell and Mr. Morley may rest satisfied that what they present house has refused to do, no house returned on an appeal to its constituency, to decide between unity and separation, can ever be induced to sanction."

The Times says: "The vote will encourage the loyalists to Ireland, to hope their kinsmen here will never abandon them to the uncovenanted mercies of the Irish National League, and its paymasters in America. Mr. Gladstone exerted all his marvelous powers of intimidation, mystification and persuasion in favor of his bill, but we rejoice that the majority against it, was decisive and crushing."

The News (Ministerial) says: "Dissolution has been rendered inevitable by last night's vote. Parnell's emphatic declaration that Ireland would accept Gladstone's bill as a final settlement, will have a wider influence with the nation to-day, than all the astute and minute criticisms of Mr. Goschen, and considering the democratic spirit of the nationalists, Mr. Parnell's declared opinion, that the provision creating the first order in the proposed Irish parliament, as a salutary provision was significant."

NEW YORK, June 8.—Colonel Richard M. Hoe, of New York, who had gone abroad for rest and pleasure in company with his wife and daughter, and was apparently in his usual good health, was suddenly stricken down last evening with heart disease. He was junior member of the firm of R. Hoe & Co.

Score One for the Ladies.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The trustees of Columbia college, at their meeting yesterday, decided to admit in the future to their institution, women on exactly the same footing as men.

NOTHING GETS AWAY.

A Jealous Correspondent Fears the Success of Fort Wayne Democrats.

This telegram is published in the Cincinnati Enquirer and is of local interest:

INDIANAPOLIS, June 5.—The secretary of the republican state central committee is understood to favor a postponement of the state convention until August 28, and none of the candidates favor an earlier date than the 5th of that month. Per contra, the democratic convention will be held early next month, as now inclined, although there has been no attempt by the committee to fix the exact date. It is now quite probable that the republicans, particularly of this district, will make an effort to nominate Colonel Shuler, Ex-Warden of the prison south, for secretary of state, and there is a disposition to give Bruce Carr another chance for auditor. Colonel Shuler is partially paralyzed, owing to a fractured skull, which he received while charging a rebel battery in the late war, and financially he is in straitened circumstances, but his mental faculties are clear, and he is quite popular with his party. The democratic situation, so far as the state ticket is concerned, does not seem to have changed from the original outlook. It seems to be taken for granted that the treasurership will go to Byrne, of Evansville, and that the combination includes Charles Munson, of Fort Wayne, for auditor. A. B. Pitzer, of Tipton, however, is making a gallant canvass for the last named position. He realizes that his chief competitor is Munson, and to head him off he is flooding the state with letters showing that Fort Wayne has had the lion's share of official spoils during the past eight years. Within the time mentioned it has had one judge of the supreme court (Worden), one state treasurer (Fleming), one superintendent of public instruction (Smart), one supreme court commissioner (Colerick), and it now has one judge of the supreme court (Zollars), one state house commissioner (Nelson), one civil service commissioner (Edgerton), one pension agent (Zollinger), one prison director (Manning), and a number of minor appointments, both federal and state. The list is quite formidable, but Dr. Pitzer is a novice in Allen county politics if he does not know that so long as there is a democrat within her borders unprovided for she will present a candidate for everything in sight, and then if the supply runs short move for a consolidation of the offices rather than let anything get away.

Monroeville and Vicinity.

Ripe cherries are in the market. The ladies' band has not disbanded. It was only a slip of the tongue.

Ex-Auditor Argo, Rev. S. D. Milles and other noted speakers will address the assembly at the school picnic, two miles west of this place, next Saturday afternoon. The gentlemen will lecture on "The Advantages and Necessity of an Education." They are good speakers and no one should fail to hear them. Grasshoppers are emigrating. There are less grasshoppers now than there were one month ago.

Prof. Walker and wife are visiting at Richmond, Ind. Strawberry and ice cream festivals are now in demand.

Quite a number of our citizens are making preparations to attend the picnic near the Marquardt church next Saturday. We learn that the ladies' band will furnish the music for the occasion, and as this being the first picnic of the season, given in this vicinity, there is no doubt but what there will be fine attendance.

The farmers' outlook for a fine crop is very encouraging. Wheat is good and the average yield will be far above the expectation. Corn has a fine start and oats and grass look fine. The orchards will again be loaded with fruits and the farmers do not need to fear, under such favorable appearances.

Decoration day was observed here last Monday as it never was before. The E. V. Link Post, G. A. R., was out in line and presented a fine appearance. After the graves of the fallen heroes, who rest in the M. E., Masonic and Catholic cemeteries, had been decked with beautiful flowers and wreaths, the procession repaired to the Monroeville public school ground where interesting and appropriate addresses were given by Rev. S. D. Miller, Rev. I. J. Bicknell and Rev. G. P. Slade. The Monroeville brass band and the choirs of the different churches furnished excellent music.

Mr. N. Whithorn has made quite an improvement in the way of remodeling his residence.

The public schools at this place have closed for a three months vacation.

The trustees have not yet selected their teachers for the coming term, but a strong indication tends that the old corps will again be retained. No better selection could be made.

TOUCHED FOR $35.

Wm. Shone, of East Washington Street, is a Victim of Sharks.

A rather smart looking party of young men called at the house of Wm. Shone, a carpet weaver on East Washington street, yesterday. They introduced themselves by offering to buy twenty yards of carpet, but the finances would be delayed for a day or two. One of the men suggested a loan of $35 on the jewelry they carried. Mr. Shone had but $25, so he kindly went out and borrowed an "X" to accommodate the gentry. Of course they left Shone a lot of worthless jewelry, and he mourns the loss of his bundle. This is an old game, but it finds new suckers.

Julius Kahn arrived in the city this morning and is registered at the Aveline house.

THE DOG AND THE INSECT.

A Dog which was Trotting Along a Path Stepped on an Insect, and the latter cried out:

"Alas! you have so Wounded me that I can Neither Fly nor Crawl again!"

"In that case," said the Dog after a Moment's Reflection, "it would not be Common Humanity on my part to leave you to a Lingering and Painful Death."

And he thereupon finished the Patient with a stroke of his Paw.

Moral—Some Folks are so Awfully Kind and Considerate, you know.—Detroit Free Press.

The farms of America equal the entire territory of the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Portugal. The corn fields equal the extent of England, Scotland, and Belgium, while the grain fields generally would overlap Spain. The cotton fields cover an area larger than Holland and twice as large as Belgium. The rice fields, sugar, and tobacco plantations would also form kingdoms of no insignificant size, and such is the stage of advancement reached by American agriculturalists that it is estimated that one farmer like Mr. Darrymple, with a field of wheat covering a hundred square miles, can raise as much grain with 400 farm servants as 5,000 peasant proprietors in France.

A MURDERER under sentence of death had a number of influential friends who were exerting themselves to secure a respite from the Governor. The Sheriff believed in capital punishment, but he was a charitably-disposed man and had been doing a good deal of running around for his doomed guest. One morning he returned from such a trip and went to the prisoner. "Well," said the man eagerly, "well, what did the Governor say?" "My dear sir, he hasn't said anything yet. He wants time to think." "Good heavens, man! This suspense is terrible," exclaimed the criminal dramatically. "Don't mention it," responded the Sheriff in a cheerful tone, "it ain't anything to what it will be if the Governor doesn't interfere."—Washington Critic.

Mrs. SMITH—"The newspapers say that six female dentists were graduated in Philadelphia last week. What a singular profession for a woman to engage in!" Mr. Smith—"I don't see anything wrong in it, my dear. In fact, I think you ought to learn the business!" Mrs. Smith—"We learn the business! Why, John! Why should I learn dentistry?" Mr. Smith—"Because dentistry compels your patients to hold their mouths open, and just think what a fine opportunity it would give you to do all the talking!"—Newman Independent.

SUDDEN

Change in the President's Plans.

He Leaves Deer Park for Washington at Noon To-day—No Reason Assigned.

A Fire at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, Causes a Loss of $100,000—Other News.

THE PRESIDENT

And Party Leave Deer Park for Washington.

DEER PARK, June 8.—Early this morning John W. Davis, who has charge of the presidential party, was notified that the president desired to make a trip to Washington, and that he would like to have his special follow closely after the midday train. The engine was at once ordered from Grafton and the palace cars "Baltimore" and "Delaware" were put in readiness for the reception of the party. What caused so sudden an alteration of plans is not known, as it was thought that the bride and groom would remain in the mountains a day or two longer. At 10:30 this morning the carriage was brought to the cottage and the president and Mrs. Cleveland and Secretary and Mrs. Lamont started for a drive. They went to what is known as Observatory Hill, about two miles from the executive cottage, where a magnificent view of the surrounding country is obtained.

A Furnace Consumed, Causing a Loss of $100,000.

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, June 8.—That portion of Saughlin mill known as the old factory, was totally destroyed by fire this last night and other parts of the factory were somewhat scorched. The saving of the ware house, plate mill and new factory was accomplished through the arrival of steamers from Wheeling. The loss will reach $100,000; insurance, $90,000.

GOING FOR KING AND COHOL.

Prohibitionists Carry the Day in Several Carolina Towns.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 8.—The local option elections were held yesterday. At many points of the state there was much excitement, but the elections passed off quietly. The prohibitionists carried the day at Raleigh by sixty majority, and also at the following places: Concord, Oxford, Kingston, Henderson, Warrenton, Louisville, Winston, Salem, Apex, Beaufort and Seaboard. The anti-prohibitionists carried the election at Charlotte, Durham, Franklinton, Reidsville, Holly Springs, Morehead, Asheville, Goldsboro, Littleton and Statesville. The election was upon the question of license, or no license, for the sale of spirituous liquors, and goes into effect at once where prohibition was carried.

THE PRINTERS

In Convention at Pittsburg—A Pre-ident Elected.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—At the typographical convention, the election of officers was proceeded with, and Chas. B. Stivers, of Chicago and Wm. Amison, of Nashville, Tenn., were nominated for the presidency. Stivers was announced as a determined opponent to a union with the Knights of Labor.

The ballot resulted in the election of Amison by a vote of 69 to 45. A recess for dinner was taken.

CHOICE BITS.

The News That is Culled for the "Sentinel" Readers.

A large new barn was burned to the ground on the John Watkins farm, south of Warsaw, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, with 1,500 bushels of wheat. Loss, $8,000; insured for $3,000 in the Farmer's Home Insurance company. Cause unknown. Mr. Watkins was badly burned in getting his horses out.

A statistical expert finds that the total amount of type set for one issue of the daily newspapers of this country would make 2,785 duodecimo volumes, and all the papers in a year would represent as much type-work as would make 10,000 volumes, equal to Appleton's Cyclopaedia. A slip of the work would extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Eight thousand persons are employed in the business.

"Huntington township owns a section of land in Allen county and Trustee Sutton has received notice that an assessment of $777.26 has been made against a portion of it for a ditch. There is a faint suspicion that the ditch is, at this rate, worth more money than the land. Mr. Sutton will go up this week and investigate the matter," says the Huntington Democrat.

The greenback congressional convention for the Tenth district met at Reusslaer last Friday and nominated John D. Tucker, of Valparaiso, for congress. Colonel Norton, of Chicago, addressed the convention. He advocated the policy of the government loaning money to the people at three per cent. interest, and a tax on all incomes over $2,000 and that all land grants made to railroads be forfeited, excepting that which has gone into the hands of innocent purchasers.

PHRENOLOGY.

A Pseudo Science that Has Waned in Popularity.

M. Dumas recently delivered the funeral oration of one Desbarrolles, professor of palmistry, and, in course of his remarks, spoke of Desbarrolles as having done for the hand what Gall and Spurzheim had done for the brain. If this parallel is to be taken seriously it is not too much to say that the science of palmistry must be regarded as practically extinct. Phrenology to-day is an effete branch of thought. We look in vain for any mention of the word in the indices of works on the brain which deal with the latest information science has elicited respecting the organ of mind. No one possessing the most elementary knowledge of the progress science has made within the last twenty years, in the matter of the functions of the brain, can for a moment accord to phrenology a stable position in the list of modern branches and modes of inquiry. It is, perhaps, only breaking a butterfly on the wheel and slaying the slain to say so much. But the science of Gall, Spurzheim, and George Combe still survives in holes and corners among us in the shape of demonstrations by peripatetic phrenologists, of the "characters" of their clients. Busts are still to be seen and bought in which the human head is mapped out into spaces of "destructiveness and veneration," into areas of "amativeness," "form," "color," "language," and so forth. There are many persons who still believe that the faculties of human nature are all pigeonholed, as the phrenologist teaches, on the contour of the brain.

The reading of character and the constitution of mind would be an extraordinarily easy matter were such things true. The brain, alas! is much too complex an organ to be lightly disposed of. It has taken the best work of a quarter of a century in modern physiology to open up the subject of brain-functions, and it will occupy the energies of many years before we are able definitely to sum up clearly and explicitly the exact nature of many of the brain's ways and works. But what we do know of cerebral structure and action slays phrenology more completely than it has ever been disposed of before. The work of Hitzig, Fritsch, Ferrier, and others has taught us the new phrenology—that of experimental science. It has exploded the old myths about faculties, "bumps," and brain organs, of which so much talk was heard a half century gone by. We are able to-day to indicate generally how the organ of mind works, how certain of its parts come to the front over others, how there should exist lower and higher "centers" in its substance, how one part regulates speech, and another seeing, and another hearing. In our hospitals for nervous diseases to-day the physician from his study in the work of the normal brain, is able to place his finger on the region he regards as affected in his patient, and post-mortem inquiry, as well as evidence of other kind, is brought into the field of research to confirm his deductions. Looking back to the days of palmistry and soothsaying, we see in the old phrenology, which still survives in unlearned circles, a fit accompaniment of the "science" of hands.—London News.

BIG

Religious Meeting at Indianapolis.

Sam Jones and Sam Small on Hand With Kind Words and Strong Logic.

Small Gives the Ministers, Press and Laboring Men Some Good Advice.

GRAND OPENING.

Jones and Small Commence Work at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8.—Sam Jones, the great evangelist, arrived here to-day. The meetings were commenced yesterday by Sam Small. The first meeting contained three thousand persons and much interest was manifested. It promises to be the beginning of one of the greatest meetings ever held in our city, and it is thought that many souls will be brought to Christ. Ministers of all denominations are putting their hands to the wheel and helping along the good work. Mr. Small is one of Jones converts. On the 15th of September last at Atlanta, he, through curiosity, took his children and went to hear Sam Jones preach. He had no intention of becoming especially interested, but something the evangelist said smote him to the heart. He was a hard drinker and a fast liver. His sinful life troubled him. He drank great quantities of whisky to drown the recollection of Jones' words. But he could not even get drunk, his mind was so engaged in searching out his sins. He retired to his room and there, "alone with God" (as Mr. Small says), he was converted. "I had always realized that if I got religion I must preach. So I threw up a five thousand dollar job as official court reporter and took to preaching in the streets for nothing. People thought I was crazy, but they learned later that I was in sober earnest."

In closing his sermon he said there was something fatally wrong, something that we must obtain before we can have contentment and good will in this country. There is not to-day upon the calendar of congress a bill that even claims to furnish the solution of these evils. You will find men in newspaper offices that know everything. What they don't know wouldn't make a yellow backed primer for Adam. They know more about religion than all the old fathers and martyrs in the church combined—in their mind, I mean. [Rip le of laughter.] Take these gigantic newspapers in marshaling all of the known forces of the day, with all of their immense facilities they do not even make a reasonable attempt to solve these difficulties. If there is one place where we ought to find something rational and that commands itself to all men, we ought to find it in the pulpit. And yet we find too many of our pulpits dominated by dogmas and notions that run away into the philosophical, the transcendental, the rhetorical. There are plans and methods pointed out in the Bible which, if properly preached from the pulpit, would not leave us groping in darkness for a solution of our troubles to-day. [Applause.] It looks like there was a great popular strike against religion and as if the people proposed to boycott the preacher and his flock. What inducement is there for a man to hear a rhetorical sermon on some abstruse subject? Christian statesmen have fallen into innocuous disuse—and a man can't be a politician after modern methods and be a christian—for a man can't have anything to do with the bar rooms and be a christian. [Clapping of hands.] Whisky has to do with half of the trouble in this country. In Chicago 18,000 men followed a banner labeled, "Our children cry for bread!" And these men go out to a park and drink up 1,400 half kegs of beer in a half day. [Laughter and applause.] No wonder their children cry for bread. There can be but one companion-piece for that, and this would be for these men to have moved back with a banner, "We cry for beer." [More laughter.] They will be trouble among the laboring class as long as they do not tear themselves away from the still-house and the saloon. I will not advocate his grievances as long as he degrades himself with this damnable drink of hell!"

Senator Voorhees has returned to his home in Terre Haute.

Lafayette, Ind., shares with twenty-three other cities and towns in the United States, the distinction of being named after the great French patriot who did so much for this country and his own, but it is alone in the honor of being mentioned in the Encyclopedia Britannica. Life in the lively pushing city on the Wabash, with its many cosy homes, fine public buildings and general air of prosperity and enterprise, is very pleasant, and recently many of its citizens feel that it has assumed new charms since rheumatism has been robbed of its terrors.

This great benefaction, however, is not one which rejoices this particular Lafayette alone, but it has been given to other Lafayettees as well, and to the world. Athlophoros is the magic remedy which drives away rheumatism and neuralgia, and Lafayette has only shown its characteristic enterprise in recognizing the new cure's many virtues. Among those whom it has benefited is Mrs. Francis Heath, of No. 79 Ferry street, an old resident and the mother of banker Heath. In answer to one who recently called on her to learn the facts in the case she gave this account:

"I have had rheumatic pains in my feet for a number of years. They affected me at times so that it was with much difficulty that I could walk, especially in going down stairs. Athlophoros has first recommended to me by Bishop Bowman. I did not get it at that time, but kept trying other medicines. It was again recommended to me by a lady, I then sent for and bought a bottle. I took a dose, and it seemed to me as if I could feel it go through my system until it came directly to the sore spot. It felt just as a little stream of water looks when during its course it comes in contact with a pebble. One or the other must give way. The water may run around the stone, but that was not the way Athlophoros did. It did not go around the pain, but drove it away. The relief was almost instantaneous. While I am getting along in years and cannot expect to get rid entirely of these pains at once, yet a small dose of Athlophoros in a little cream—the way in which I find most pleasant to take it—relieves the pain immediately."

Mr. Baldrige, who is in the real estate and insurance business at No. 93 South Third street, and who lives at 17 North Sixth street, happening to be passing while Mrs. Heath was speaking, she called him in and he gladly told how he had been cured of rheumatism by Athlophoros.

"I was just about to start down to my office one morning last winter," he said, "when a terrible pain took me right in the hip and then ran down the sciatic nerve as quick as lightning. It was with much pain and distress that I managed to get down to my office at all. My business being such that it was necessary for me to be at the office every day, I was obliged to hobble along and get there the best I could. I suffered for some time in this way, trying all kinds of remedies, but nothing seemed to check the disease until I commenced using Athlophoros. The first four doses gave me relief. I only used one bottle, and am perfectly well, as you see me now. I have never had any return of the pain since I took the Athlophoros."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

These are the men who when asked for a Benson's Capone Plaster, will recommend some cheap and trashy substitute or imitation, saying it is "just as good." Sometimes they will do up and sell the miserable imitation without remark, allowing the customer to suppose he has Benson's. If the valueless plaster is returned, cheap John will say he made a mistake;—if not, he has done a good stroke of business. The public are cautioned against John and all his ilk. DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress, 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY, of Allen.

WHEN girls are young they like half-a-dozen birthdays a year; but as they grow old they don't care to have even one.

The law against carrying concealed weapons does not apply to bicycles. They are revolvers, but they avoid cart ridges, and never go off themselves.

A RESIDENT of Wolf Hill Prairie, Ind., caught a large wild turkey which was a partial albino. Some days later a flock of twenty-five wild turkeys was seen in the same bottom, among which was one bird almost pure white in color.

A NEW cotton-picking machine has been invented and patented, which, it is claimed, fulfills all the conditions required of such an arrangement. It is the work of a Georgia inventor, Owen T. Bugg, and, though perfected too late to do any work on the late crop, will be put in the field to test its capacity on the next one.

The deepest boring yet made is said to be at Schladebach, near the line between L. eipic and Corbetta. It has been made by the Prussian Government for the purpose of ascertaining the presence of coal, and was bored with diamond drills. Its depth is 1,390 meters, or 4,500 feet, its breadth at the bottom two inches, and at the top eleven inches. The temperature at the bottom indicates 118 degrees Fahrenheit.

CHARLES MILLER was talking about the persecuted laborers one afternoon recently at Cincinnati to a crowd of strikers, and accidentally vented some socialistic ideas. Suddenly Thomas Gorman, a son of Erin, stepped up and asked: "Are you wan of thin socialists?" "I am, my friend, and you—" But the representative of socialism failed to proceed, as a six-ton sledgehammer blow fell on his mouth, and he was carried to the hospital.

GRANT SHAW had a peculiar adventure the other day, near Confluence, Pa. He was walking through a patch of timber, when a familiar sound of a turkey gobble came to his ears. Going in the direction from which the sound came, and imitating the gobble, he soon came upon a large flock of wild turkeys, which were walking in his direction, being attracted by his call. When the turkeys observed their deceiver they immediately began an indiscriminate attack upon him, Grant had a hard fight with them for several minutes, but succeeded finally in escaping with two of the turkeys under his arms.

ROME and Naples have hitherto been the cheapest cities in the world as far as cab hire is concerned. London will now step to the front in that matter. Three thousand new cabs are to be put on the streets. The fare will be ten cents a mile, and it is not to be put in a glass box after the fashion of the cash receipts in our abbreviated terminal street cars. There will be a speaking-tube from the passenger to the driver, and the wild waving of an umbrella or cane will be after this unnecessary. The cab doors can be opened by the cabby without leaving his box, and the cabby himself will be dressed in a jaunty livery.

ANOTHER effective advertising scheme has been invented in England. A leading confectioner was ordered to put up 10,000 tin boxes of candy, hermetically sealed, with an advertisement of a cheap watch in each box, and in some of the boxes, in addition thereto, a coupon entitling the finder to one of the watches. On the occasion of the Oxford and Cambridge boat race the 10,000 water-tight boxes were thrown into the river, to be dived and grappled and raked for by anybody who thought it worth while to take so much trouble to get the sweets, and possibly a watch. No little excitement and talk was caused, and the object of the enterprising watch vender—the getting of much advertising—was fully attained.

The latest novelty in Chicago is the "rainbow party." The young ladies wear little aprons with the bottom left unhemmed. Every young lady has a number, and these numbers are placed in a box. The gentlemen buy tickets and draw from the box. After all the young men have found the aprons, or rather their young ladies wearing the proper aprons, the master of ceremonies announces the conditions. The young men are to hem the aprons, and the one doing the neatest, quickest, and most careful piece of work is to receive a prize. The young ladies supply their escorts with needle and thread, and at the call of time the fun begins with the efforts of the contestants to thread their needles. The prizes are sometimes quite valuable. The aprons are raffled off after the prizes are awarded, and sometimes fetch big prices.

CATCHING A SHARK.

In 1874 I was mate of a coasting schooner voyaging between Charleston, Beaufort, Savannah, and other points on the Southern coast. She was built at Charleston, and I went out on the first voyage. The name of her captain was Martin, an easy-going, good natured man, and we had three men before the mast.

We left Charleston in the afternoon, and were scarcely clear of the bar when a monster shark was observed in our wake. There are always sharks in plenty in Charleston harbor, and this chap would not have received much notice except for his size and the grim, persistent manner in which he followed us. He ranged upon the starboard quarter, not more than ten feet away, and there he stuck. When we had made our offing and set our course, the captain determined to get rid of the unpleasant visitor. When a sailor sees a shark following his ship he feels as a landsman would if a wolf was pursuing his carriage. The shark is there to eat you, if opportunity occurs, and you feel a spirit of revenge stirring you up to get rid of him.

We had a big shark hook on board, and after the decks had been cleared we brought it out, baited it with a chunk of pork, and the morsel was dropped overboard and the rope paid out until the pork was right at the shark's nose. He refused to touch it. Sharks are always hungry, and sharks aren't a bit particular whether they eat pork or sailor, but this fellow seemed to know that we had formed a conspiracy to destroy him. We made up a dummy and carried it aloft and heaved it overboard with a great outcry, but that trick also failed. The shark paid no attention to the splash, but kept his wicked eyes on the man at the wheel, and remained where we first discovered him.

We had a slow passage down to the inlet, and as we entered it the shark suddenly disappeared. We went up to Beaufort, unloaded a part of our cargo, took on some cotton, and came down again, and we had scarcely crossed the bar when the big fish again took his position on the starboard quarter. It was the same when we went into Savannah and the same at Brunswick, and we dropped him again off Charleston as we returned after an absence of two weeks. We tried every way known to sailors to drive the fellow off, but he wouldn't budge. At Charleston the captain consulted a colored clairvoyant, and she told him about an ounce of pink salve and told him he must buy a yellow dog, grease its paws with the salve, and use the dog to bait the shark hook. He paid $2 for the salve, and was a whole day finding a yellow dog. One was finally discovered following a colored man about, and an offer of $3 made him our dog. On this occasion we left Charleston just at daybreak, having been in the harbor three days. As day fully dawned we picked up our old enemy, and all hands willingly turned up to see what luck we would have with the new bait. We greased the paws of the dog, and he at once began to howl in the most dismal manner. You'd have believed from his actions that he knew what was coming. When we had lashed him fast to the hook we found that the shark had neared the ship by several feet, and that he seemed to be a bit nervous.

Well, when all was ready over went the dog, and he had scarcely touched the water when the shark had him. He had dog, hook and all at one snap, and started to make a skip when the hook brought him up. We took the line to the capstan and walked the old chap alongside, and when we had his head out of water we fired two charges of buckshot into it. We then drew him inboard and finished him off, and after breakfast we fell to and slit him open to see what sort of cargo he carried. There was the dog, swallowed almost whole, a human hand, a beef bone, the heel of a boot, a pint bottle, two feet of small chain, a score of buttons, a silver-plated table knife and two iron spoons and several other trifles which he had picked up while cruising around and waiting for us to come out. We have him over after the examination, and though the schooner ran on that same route for the ensuing eleven months, none of us sighted a shark, large or small. The greased dog business seemed to have given the whole fraternity a valuable hint.—New York Sun.

In Your Liver out of Order.
Then is your whole system deranged—the blood is impure, the breath offensive, you have a headache, feel languid, dispirited and nervous, have no appetite, your sleep is troubled and unrefreshing. To prevent a more serious condition, take at once a half tablespoonful of Simmons Liver Regulator, three times a day—it will soon restore the healthy action of the liver, bowels and kidneys.
"I recommend Simmons Liver Regulator to all my friends, as I have personally known it to cure all liver disorders and sick headache."
A. MERRITT, Beverly, N. J.

BEWARE of judging hastily; it is better to suspend an opinion than to retract an assertion.

In the Dear Old Days.
We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of your blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balm will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

MARK TWAIN.

Some California Testimony About His Quiver War Record—A Duel He Didn't Fight.

One of the Eastern literary papers seems to have just discovered that Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) was a Rebel bushwhacker in the early part of the late war. The fact was published in 'Virginia, Nevada, in 1864, during the hottest period of the war. And worse—the rival journal that published the fact went further, and intimated in language not to be mistaken that Mark had violated his parole, and was then a fit subject for a target for a detail of Union soldiers.

Lieut. Clemens, having been a pilot on the Mississippi River, and therefore knowing the channel and being familiar with the points where steamboats would have to hug the shore, was detailed for the special duty of firing into the Federal transports plying that stream, and he performed that duty effectively. He was captured and paroled. While under parole, the account stated, he went ahead firing into Union boats. He was captured a second time, but by a different command, none of whom knew he was under parole, or he would have been shot on the spot. He was sent to St. Louis and imprisoned in a tobacco warehouse, on Washington Avenue. He got to thinking the matter over—the probability of being sent to Grant's army, by which he was first captured, to be exchanged, and by which, if recognized, he would certainly be shot for a violation of his parole—and he skipped across the plains to the Territory of Nevada, of which his brother, Orion Clemens, was then Secretary by appointment from President Lincoln. Fearing the influence of his brother would not be sufficient to save him if he should be recognized by passing officers or soldiers of the Union army, he did not remain long in Carson City, but pushed on to the out-of-the-way mining camp of Aurora, where he remained until he fancied the storm had blown over.

When in Aurora he wrote a series of letters to the Virginia Enterprise, and subsequently accepted a place on the editorial staff of that journal. His sharp pen put a man named Willis, city editor of the Virginia Union, to hunting up his record, and the publication of the foregoing facts was the result. For this Mark Twain sent Willis a challenge to mortal combat. The challenge was sent by Mark's "game" little friend, Steve Gillis. Willis would not accept, because he had no cause to quarrel with Gillis, but his "best man" then came in and challenged Mark Twain, who declined on the same ground given by Willis for not meeting Gillis. The three challenges all passed the same day—within a few hours, in fact—and as dueling had just been made popular by the Dog Valley meeting of Tom Fitch, "the silver-tongued" orator, and Joseph T. Goodman, the poetical editor-in-chief of the Enterprise, it looked as though Six-Mile Canon was to be deluged with blood. But the matter was dropped, and Mark Twain was never called upon by a drumhead court-martial to stand up and take the regulation dose of leaden pills.—Nogales (Cal.) Frontier.

A CORRESPONDENT in Montana, telling of the fortuitous discovery of silver mines, relates this incident: A prospector in New Mexico with the honored name of John Quincy Adams found his haversack on fire, his prospector's glass having focused the sun's rays on it. As the haversack contained about a dozen pounds of powder he dropped it and got out of the way in a hurry. It fell into a crevice, and a large rock was thrown up. Adams returned mournfully to gather up what might be left of his effects, and found an exceedingly rich vein of ore which the explosion had exposed to view. He sold a third interest in his find for $16,000, and very consistently named the mine "The Nick of Time."

The Knights of Labor, recognizing the perilous character of the boycott, are struggling nobly to place it under the absolute control of the central board.
A wise idea. We are told by the historian of the ku klux-klan that it was originally organized to intimidate criminals, but in the hands of reckless and unscrupulous persons who could not be restrained, it soon developed into a vast engine of murder and oppression, directed by criminals. The power of the boycott in unscrupulous hands would work such injustice that public sentiment would speedily overthrow it and the organization which had brought it to the front.

New Haven turnpike and from there his funeral occurs to-morrow morning. The services will be held at the cathedral, at 10 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Oechtering officiating.

Our exchanges have during the last few days been venting a good deal of spleen on Mr. Cleveland because as a citizen he chooses to get married after his own inclination, without either consulting or inviting correspondents. In the midst of their murmurings there is a great deal of nonsense. These fellows may not know it, and the managing editors of the "great dailies" surely do not,
but it is a fact that the infamous manner in which many writers for the press have pursued Mr. Cleveland and Miss Folsom has disgusted millions of readers. The President is justified in the popular mind at feeling a deep sentiment against the journalistic scavengers who for several weeks past have done violence to the decencies of life and insulted a sensitive young lady by their empty and offensive garrulity. It is a shame and a reproach to modern journalism, the manner in which some leading newspapers have prostituted their columns to low gossip.

States court. Mr. Brown says he is still the joint senator from Allen and Whitley counties and as yet sees no reason to resign that place, inasmuch as he is not postmaster. His right to the postoffice is in jeopardy in the senate. He is but the president's expressed choice for the place. It is believed he has already declined the proffered confirmation as postmaster.

Mr. J. R. Bittinger is announced today as a one term candidate for county recorder. Jake, as he is familiarly called, has lived here all his life, and in every sphere he has made friends. THE SEN-TINEL has from time to time commended
Mr. Bittinger for his fearless course as assistant prosecutor. Faithful in that trust he can be relied on as faithful to all trusts. No man can question his competency, no man can question his democracy, and his honesty and integrity are above reproach. Mr. Bittinger goes into the race with much prestige and a strong following of warm friends.

A BOLD JOB.
A Lafayette Township Farmer Pitched From a Train and Robbed.
John McClave is a wealthy farmer, residing in Lafayette township, Allen county, a few miles east of Roanoke. Some time ago he went to Texas to visit a daughter, who is ill with consumption, and together they started home via the Wabash. They took a sleeper and were pursuing their journey, says the Huntington Democrat, when one evening both retired and in the morning the daughter arose and not finding her father, supposed that he was yet asleep, but as he did not appear after some time had elapsed, a search was made and his berth was found empty. He could not be found on the train, neither had any of the train men seen him. The woman was almost crazed, and at the first station left the train, while telegrams were sent back asking that a search be made.
Finally a response was received stating that he had been found lying near the track in an unconscious condition and that his pockets had been rifled of all his money and valuables. He was cared for and the friends at home telegraphed.
The eldest son, at last accounts, had gone to his father and yesterday conveyed him home.

CRACKED A SAFE.
The Store of W. W. Fox & Son, in Nebraska, is Visited.
There is unquestionably a gang of crooks in the city. They went into the general store of W. W. Fox & Son, in Nebraska, shortly after midnight and blew the safe open. They piled flour sacks about the iron box to deaden the report of the explosion and then drilled through the combination lock. The task was light, and without detection they forced the safe open and made off with something over $50 in cash and a bundle of valuable papers, such as notes and mortgages. Mr. Fox lives just adjoining the store, but never heard a thing, so nicely the fellows worked.

Officer Singleton is on that beat and discovered the robbery at 2:30. He notified Captain Diehl and a search was instituted without avail as yet. The rascals selected a good place to take advantage of an officer. Mr. Singleton's beat extends from Jefferson street to the Muncie railroad, in Nebraska and it is pretty hard to cover that territory save in a balloon. The men were seen in the vicinity yesterday and last night, but people supposed they were railroaders.
There were three or four of them and they carried a dinner bucket for a blind.

THE M. E. CHURCH.
The Fort Wayne District is Presented for a Brief Review.
Rev. M. A. Teague sends THE SEN-TINEL a copy of the minutes of the forty-third annual session of the North Indiana conference of the M. E. church, held at Warsaw, April 8 to 13, 1886. From the report is gathered the following items, which will be of general interest: The number of probationers in the churches of the conference are 8,457 against 6,872 the previous year, and the number of full members 32,105 against 30,017 the year previous. Number of local preachers, 223; number of children baptized, 478; number of adults baptized, 2,388;
number of churches, 425; probable value, $983,233; number of parsonages, 113; probable value, $136,175; number of Sunday schools, 392; number of officers and teachers, 4,990; number of scholars, 34,867. For missions there was collected $8,631.41, an increase over the year previous of $2,046.48. There are 148 appointments in the conference, and the salaries of the pastors, including house rents, amount to $102,991.18.

Gladstone's Home Rule Bill in Commons.

The Vote Stood 311 for, to 341 Against--London Press Comment.

An Attempt Made to Mob Lord Hartington After the Adjournment of the House.

DOWNED

Gladstone's Home Rule Bill by a Vote of 341 to 311.

LONDON, June 8.—The vote on home rule bill last night was 311 for the measure and 341 against it. Mr. Gladstone moved an adjournment until Thursday and the motion was adopted.

The majority against the bill surprised even the unionists. Several members supposed to favor the bill went into the opposition lobby. The crowd outside attempted to mob Lord Hartington when he emerged from the house. After the division eighty-five Parnellites voted with the government. About twelve liberals refused to vote on the division.

LONDON, June 8.—There is intense excitement throughout the whole country over the outcome of the parliamentary contest. The conservatives and whigs are everywhere making the day one of jubiles.

At Belfast, Londonderry and other towns the loyalists have been stoned during their parades and demonstrations.

THE CABINET WILL CONSIDER.

LONDON, June 8.—The cabinet will meet this afternoon to consider what action is incumbent on the government as a result of their defeat last night.

PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, June 8.—The Standard says: "The house of commons, by defeating the home rule bill has saved itself from degradation and the empire from disruption. It has also read a lesson to Ireland, which, after the first irritation has subsided, will, we trust, be duly appreciated by the quick-witted inhabitants of that island. Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Parnell and Mr. Morley may rest satisfied that what the present house has refused to do, no house returned on an appeal to its constituency, to decide between unity and separation, can ever be induced to sanction."

The Times says: "The vote will encourage the loyalists to Ireland, to hope their kinsmen here will never abandon them to the uncovenanted mercies of the Irish National League, and its paymasters in America. Mr. Gladstone exerted all his marvelous powers of intimidation, mystification and persuasion in favor of his bill, but we rejoice that the majority against it, was decisive and crushing."

The News (Ministerial) says: "Dissolution has been rendered inevitable by last night's vote. Parnell's emphatic declaration that Ireland would accept Gladstone's bill as a final settlement, will have a wider influence with the nation to-day, than all the astute and minute criticisms of Mr. Goschen, and considering the democratic spirit of the nationalists, Mr. Parnell's declared opinion, that the provision creating the first order in the proposed Irish parliament, as a salutary provision was significant."

Col. Richard M. Roe Dead.
New York, June 8.—Colonel Richard M. Roe, of New York, who had gone abroad for rest and pleasure in company with his wife and daughter, and was apparently in his usual good health, was suddenly stricken down last evening with heart disease. He was junior member of the firm of R. Roe & Co.

Score One for the Ladies.
New York, June 8.—The trustees of Columbia college, at their meeting yesterday, decided to admit in the future to their institution, women on exactly the same footing as men.

Rev. W. N. Webb and Mr. Byron Angell left at noon to-day for Indianapolis to attend the Episcopal state convention.

NOTHING GETS AWAY.

A Jealous Correspondent Fears the Success of Fort Wayne Democrats.

This telegram is published in the Cincinnati Enquirer and is of local interest:

INDIANAPOLIS, June 5.—The secretary of the republican state central committee is understood to favor a postponement of the state convention until August 28, and none of the candidates favor an earlier date than the 5th of that month. Per contra, the democratic convention will be held early next month, as now inclined, although there has been no attempt by the committee to fix the exact date. It is now quite probable that the republicans, particularly of this district, will make an effort to nominate Colonel Shuler, Ex-Warden of the prison south, for secretary of state, and there is a disposition to give Bruce Carr another chance for auditor. Colonel Shuler is partially paralyzed, owing to a fractured skull, which he received while charging a rebel battery in the late war, and financially he is in straitened circumstances, but his mental faculties are clear, and he is quite popular with his party. The democratic situation, so far as the state ticket is concerned, does not seem to have changed from the original outlook. It seems to be taken for granted that the reinsurance will go to Byrne, of Evansville, and that the combination includes Charles Munson, of Fort Wayne, for auditor. A. R. Pitzer, of Tipton, however, is making a gallant canvass for the last named position. He realizes that his chief competitor is Munson, and to head him off he is flooding the state with letters showing that Fort Wayne has had the lion's share of official spoils during the past eight years. Within the time mentioned it has had one judge-of-the-supreme court (Worden), one state treasurer (Fleming), one superintendent of public instruction (Smart), one supreme court commissioner (Colerick), and it now has one judge of the supreme court (Zollars), one state house commissioner (Nelson), one civil service commissioner (Edgerton), one pension agent (Zollinger), one prison director (Menning), and a number of minor appointments, both federal and state. The list is quite formidable, but Dr. Pitzer is a novice in Allen county politics if he does not know that so long as there is a democrat within her borders they provided for she will present a candidate for everything in eight, and then if the supply runs short move for a consolidation of the offices rather than let anything get away.

Monroeville and Vicinity.

Ripe cherries are in the market. The ladies' band has not disbanded. It was only a slip of the tongue.

Ex-Auditor Argo, Rev. S. D. Miles and other noted speakers will address the assembly at the school picnic, two miles west of this place, next Saturday afternoon. The gentlemen will lecture on "The Advantages and Necessity of an Education." They are good speakers and no one should fail to hear them. Grasshoppers are emigrating. There are no less grasshoppers now than there were one month ago.

Prof. Walker and wife are visiting at Richmond, Ind.

Strawberry and ice cream festivals are now in demand. Quite a number of our citizens are making preparations to attend the picnic near the Marquardt church next Saturday. We learn that the ladies' band will furnish the music for the occasion, and as this being the first picnic of the season, given in this vicinity, there is no doubt but what there will be fine attendance.

The farmers' outlook for a fine crop is very encouraging. Wheat is good and the average yield will be far above the expectation. Corn has a fine start and oats and grass look fine. The orchards will again be loaded with fruit, and the farmers do not need to fear, under such favorable appearances.

Decoration day was observed here last Monday as it never was before. The N. Y. Link Post, G. A. R., was out in line and presented a fine appearance. After the graves of the fallen heroes, who rest in the M. E., Masonic and Catholic cemeteries, had been decked with beautiful flowers and wreaths, the procession repaired to the Monroeville public school ground where interesting and appropriate addresses were given by Rev. S. D. Miller, Rev. I. J. Bicknell and Rev. G. P. Slado. The Monroeville brass band and the choir of the different churches furnished excellent music. Mr. N. Whitorn has made quite an improvement in the way of remodeling his residence.

The public schools at this place have closed for a three months vacation.

The trustees have not yet selected their teachers for the coming term, but a strong indication tends that the old corps will again be retained. No better selection could be made.

Rev. A. J. Douglass and wife are visiting at Columbia City.

J. J. Marquardt, son of Adam Marquardt, will spend the summer at Washington, Mo.

TOUCHED FOR $35.

Wm. Shone, of East Washington Street, is a Victim of Sharks.

A rather smart looking party of young men called at the house of Wm. Shone, a carpet weaver on East Washington street, yesterday. They introduced themselves by offering to buy twenty yards of carpet, but the business would be delayed for a day or two. One of the men suggested a loan of $35 on the jewelry they carried. Mr. Shone had but $25, so he kindly went out and borrowed an "X" to accommodate the gentry. Of course they left Shone a lot of worthless jewelry, and he mourns the loss of his hoodie. This is an old game, but it finds new suckers.

THE DOG AND THE INSECT.

A Dog which was Trotting Along a Path Stepped on an Insect, and the latter cried out:

"Alas! you have so wounded me that I can neither fly nor crawl again!"
"In that case," said the Dog after a moment's reflection, "it would not be common humanity on my part to leave you to a lingering and Painful Death."

And he thereupon finished the Patient with a stroke of his Paw.

Moral—Some Folks are so Awfully Kind and Considerate, you know.—Detroit Free Press.

The farms of America equal the entire territory of the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Portugal. The corn-fields equal the extent of England, Scotland, and Belgium, while the grain fields generally would overlay Spain. The cotton fields cover an area larger than Holland and twice as large as Belgium. The rice fields, sugar, and tobacco plantations would also form kingdoms of no insignificant size, and such is the stage of advancement reached by American agriculturalists that it is estimated that one farmer like Mr. Darrymple, with a field of wheat covering a hundred square miles, can raise as much grain with 400 farm servants as 5,000 peasant proprietors in France.

A SUNDAY under sentence of death had a number of influential friends who were exerting themselves to secure a respite from the Governor. The Sheriff believed in capital punishment, but he was a charitable-disposed man and had been doing a good deal of running around for his doomed guest. One morning he returned from such a trip and went to the prisoner. "Well," said the man eagerly, "well, what did the Governor say?" "My dear sir, he hasn't said anything yet. He wants time to think." "Good heavens, man! This suspense is terrible," exclaimed the criminal dramatically. "Don't mention it," responded the Sheriff in a cheerful tone, "it ain't anything to what it will be if the Governor doesn't interfere."—Washington Critic.

Mrs. SMITH—"The newspapers say that six female dentists were graduated in Philadelphia last week. What a singular profession for a woman to engage in!" Mr. Smith—"I don't see anything wrong in it, my dear. In fact, I think you ought to learn the business." Mrs. Smith—"Me learn the business! Why, John! Why should I learn dentistry?" Mr. Smith—"Because dentistry compels your patients to hold their mouths open, and just think what a fine opportunity it would give you to do all the talking!"—Newman Independent.

Change in the President's Plans.

He Leaves Deer Park for Washington at Noon To-day--No Reason Assigned.

A Fire [at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, Causes a Loss of $100,000--Other News.

And Party Leave Deer Park for Washington.

DEER PARK, June 8.—Early this morning John W. Davis, who has charge of the presidential party, was notified that the president desired to make a trip to Washington, and that he would like to have his special follow closely after the midday train. The engine was at once ordered from Grafton and the palace cars "Baltimore" and "Delaware" were put in readiness for the reception of the party. What caused so sudden an alteration of plans is not known, as it was thought that the bride and groom would remain in the mountains a day or two longer. At 10:30 this morning the carriage was brought to the cottage and the president and Mrs. Cleveland and Secretary and Mrs. Lamont started for a drive. They went to what is known as Observatory Hill, about two miles from the executive cottage, where a magnificent view of the surrounding country is obtained.

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, June 8.—That portion of Sauglin mill known as the old factory, was totally destroyed by fire this last night and other parts of the factory were somewhat scorched. The saving of the warehouse, plate mill and new factory was accomplished through the arrival of steamers from Wheeling. The loss will reach $100,000; insurance, $90,000.

GOING FOR KING AL COHOL.

Prohibitionists Carry the Day in Several Carolina Towns.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 8.—The local option elections were held yesterday. At many points of the state there was much excitement, but the elections passed off quietly. The prohibitionists carried the day at Raleigh by sixty majority, and also at the following places: Concord, Oxford, Kingston, Henderson, Warren-ton, Louisburg, Winston, Salem, Apex, Beaufort and Seaboard. The anti-prohibitionists carried the election at Charlotte, Durham, Franklinton, Reidsville, Holly Springs, Morehead, Asheville, Goldsboro, Littleton and Statesville. The election was upon the question of license, or no license, for the sale of spirituous liquors, and goes into effect at once where prohibition was carried.

In Convention at Pittsburg--A Pro-ident Elected.

PITTSBURG, June 8.—At the typographical convention, the election of officers was proceeded with, and Chas. B. Stivers, of Chicago and Wm. The ballot resulted in the election of Amison by a vote of 63 to 46. A recess for dinner was taken.

CHOICE BITS.

The News That is Culled for the "Sentinel" Readers.

A large new barn was burned to the ground on the John Batkins farm, south of Warsaw, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, with 1,500 bushels of wheat. Loss, $6,000; insured for $3,000 in the Farmer's Home Insurance company. Cause unknown. Mr. Batkins was badly burned in getting his horses out.

A statistical expert finds that the total amount of type set for one issue of the daily newspapers of this country would make 2,785 duodecimo volumes, and all the papers in a year would represent as much type-work as would make 10,000 volumes, equal to Appleton's Cyclopaedia. A slip of the work would extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Eight thousand persons are employed in the business.

"Huntington township owns a section of land in Allen county and Trustee Sutton has received notice that an assessment of $777.26 has been made against a portion of it for a ditch. There is a faint suspicion that the ditch is, at this rate, worth more money than the land. Mr. Sutton will go up this week and investigate the matter," says the Huntington Democrat.

The greenback congressional convention for the Tenth district met at Reus-lar last Friday and nominated John D. Tucker, of Valparaiso, for congress. Colonel Norton, of Chicago, addressed the convention. He advocated the policy of the government loaning money to the people at three per cent. interest, and a tax on all incomes over $2,000 and that all land grants made to railroads be forfeited, excepting that which has gone into the hands of innocent purchasers.

PHRENOLOGY.

A Pseudo Science that Has Waned in Popularity.

M. Dumas recently delivered the funeral oration of one Desbarrolles, professor of palmistry, and, in course of his remarks, spoke of Desbarrolles as having done for the hand what Gall and Spurzheim had done for the brain. If this parallel is to be taken seriously it is not too much to say that the science of palmistry must be regarded as practically extinct. Phrenology to-day is an effete branch of thought. We look in vain for any mention of the word in the indices of works on the brain which deal with the latest information science has elicited respecting the organ of mind. No one possessing the most elementary knowledge of the progress science has made within the last twenty years, in the matter of the functions of the brain, can for a moment accord to phrenology a stable position in the list of modern branches and modes of inquiry. It is, perhaps, only breking a butterfly on the wheel and slaying the slain to say so much. But the science of Gall, Spurzheim, and George Combe still survives in holes and corners among us in the shape of demonstrations by peripatetic phrenologists, of the "characters" of their clients. Busts are still to be seen and bought in which the human head is mapped out into spaces of "dushtfulness and veneration," into areas of "amableness," "form," "color," "language," and so forth. There are many persons who still believe that the faculties of human nature are all pigeonholed, as the phrenologist teaches, on the contour of the brain.

The reading of character and the constitution of mind would be an extraordinarily easy matter were such things true. The brain, alas! is much too complex an organ to be lightly disposed of. It has taken the best work of a quarter of a century in modern physiology to open up the subject of brain-functions, and it will occupy the energies of many years before we are able definitely to sum up clearly and explicitly the exact nature of many of this brain's ways and works. But what we do know of cerebral structure and action shuns phrenology more completely than it has ever been disposed of before. The work of Hitzig, Fritsch, Ferrier, and others has taught us the new phrenology—that of experimental science. It has exploded the old myths about faculties, "bumps," and brain organs, of which so much talk was heard a half century ago. We are able to-day to indicate generally how the organ of mind works, how certain of its parts come to the front over others, how there should exist lower and higher "centers" in its substance, how one part regulates speech, and another seeing, and another hearing. In our hospitals for nervous diseases to-day the physician from his study in the work of the normal brain, is able to place his finger on the region he regards as affected in his patient, and post-mortem inquiry, as well as evidence of other kind, is brought into the field of research to confirm his deductions. Looking back to the days of palmistry and soothsaying, we see in the old phrenology, which still survives in unlearned circles, a fit accompaniment of the "science" of hands.—London News.

Religious Meeting at Indianapolis.

Sam Jones and Sam Small on Hand With Kind Words and Strong Logic.

Small Gives the Ministers, Press and Laboring Men Some Good Advice.

GRAND OPENING.

Jones and Small Commence Work at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8.—Sam Jones, the great evangelist, arrived here to-day. The meetings were commenced yesterday by Sam Small. The first meeting contained three thousand persons and much interest was manifested. It promises to be the beginning of one of the greatest meetings ever held in our city, and it is thought that many souls will be brought to Christ. Ministers of all denominations are putting their hands to the wheel and helping along the good work. Mr. Small is one of Jones converts. On the 15th of September last at Atlanta, Ga., through courtesy, took his children and went to hear Sam Jones preach. He had no intention of becoming especially interested, but something the evangelist said smote him to the heart. He was a hard drinker and a fast liver. His sinful life troubled him. He drank great quantities of whiskey to drown the recollection of Jones' words. But he could not even get drunk, his mind was so engaged in searching out his sins. He retired to his room and there, "alone with God" (as Mr. Small says), he was converted. "I had always realized that if I got religion I must preach. So I threw up a five thousand dollar job as official court reporter and took to preaching in the streets for nothing. People thought I was crazy, but they learned later that I was in sober earnest."

In closing his sermon he said there was something fatally wrong, something that we must obtain before we can have contentment and good will in this country. There is not to-day upon the calendar of congress a bill that even claims to furnish the solution of these evils. You will find men in newspaper offices that know everything. What they don't know wouldn't make a yellow-backed primer for Adam. They know more about religion than all the old fathers and martyrs in the church combined—in their mind, I mean. [Rip le of laughter.] Take these gigantic newspapers in matheating all of the known forces of the day, with all of their immense facilities they do not even make a reasonable attempt to solve these difficulties. If there is one place where we ought to find something rational and that commands itself to all men, we ought to find it in the pulpit. And yet we find too many of our pulpits dominated by dogmas and notions that run away into the philosophical, the transcendental, the rhetorical. There are plans and methods pointed out in the Bible which, if properly preached from the pulpit, would not leave us groping in darkness for a solution of our troubles to-day. [Applause.] It looks like there was a great popular strike against religion and as if the people proposed to boycott the preacher and his flock. What inducement is there for a man to hear a rhetorical sermon on some abstruse subject? Christian statesmen have fallen into innocuous disulude—and a man can't be a politician after modern methods and be a christian—for a man can't have anything to do with the bar rooms and be a christian. [Clapping of hands.] Whisky has to do with half of the trouble in this country. In Chicago 18,000 men followed a banner labeled, "Our children cry for bread!" And these men go out to a park and drink up 1,400 half keg of beer in a half day. [Laughter and applause.] No wonder their children cry for bread. There can be but one companion-piece for that, and this would be for these men to have moved back with a banner, "We cry for beer." [More laughter.] There will be trouble among the laboring class as long as they do not tear themselves away from the still-house and the saloon. I will not advocate his grievances as long as he degrades himself with this damnable drink of hell!

Senator Voorhees has returned to his home in Terre Haute.

Lafayette, Ind., shares, with twenty-three other cities and towns in the United States, the distinction of being named after the great French patriot who did so much for this country and his own, but it is alone in the honor of being mentioned in the Encyclopedia Britannica. Life in the lively pushing city on the Wabash, with its many easy homes, fine public buildings and general air of prosperity and enterprise, is very pleasant, and recently many of its citizens feel that it has assumed new charms since rheumatism has been robbed of its terrors.

This great benefactor, however, is not one which reflects this particular Lafayette alone, but it has been given to other Lafayettes as well, and to the world. Athlaphora is the magic remedy which drives away rheumatism and neuralgia, and Lafayette has only shown its characteristic enterprise in recognizing the new cure's many virtues. Among those whom it has benefited is Mrs. Francis Heath, of No. 79 Ferry street, an old resident and the mother of banker Heath. In answer to one who recently called on her to learn the facts in the case she gave this account:

"I have had rheumatic pains in my feet for a number of years. They affected me at times so that it was with much difficulty that I could walk, especially in going down stairs. Athlaphora was first recommended to me by Bishop Bowman. I did not get it at that time, but kept trying other medicines. It was again recommended to me by a lady. I then sent for and bought a bottle. I took a dose, and it seemed to me as if I could feel it go through my system until it came directly to the sore spot. It felt just as a little stream of water looks when during its course it comes in contact with a pebble. One or the other must give way. The water may run around the stone, but that was not the way Athlaphora did. It did not go around the pain, but drove it away. The relief was almost instantaneous. While I am getting along in years and cannot expect to get rid entirely of these pains at once, yet a small dose of Athlaphora in a little cream—the way in which I find most pleasant to take it—relieves the pain immediately."

Mr. Baldrige, who is in the real estate and insurance business at No. 93 South Third street, and who lives at No. 17 North Sixth street, happening to be passing while Mrs. Heath was speaking, she called him in and he gladly told how he had been cured of rheumatism by Athlaphora.

"I was just about to start down to my office one morning last winter," he said, "when a terrible pain took me right in the hip and then ran down the sciatic nerve as quick as lightning. It was with much pain and distress that I managed to get down to my office at all. My business being such that it was necessary for me to be at the office every day, I was obliged to hobble along and get there the best I could. I suffered for some time in this way, trying all kinds of remedies, but nothing seemed to check the disease until I commenced using Athlaphora. The first four doses gave me relief. I only used one bottle, and am perfectly well, as you see me now. I have never had any return of the pain since I took the Athlaphora."

If you cannot get Athlaphora of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he has not it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. Athlaphora Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress, 12th District, HON. ROBERT LOWRY, of Allen.

WHEN girls are young they like half-a-dozen birthdays a year; but as they grow old they don't care to have even one.

THE law against carrying concealed weapons does not apply to bicycles. They are revolvers, but they avoid cart ridges, and never go off themselves.

A RESIDENT of Wolf Hill Prairie, Ind., caught a large wild turkey which was a pale albino. Some days later a flock of twenty-five wild turkeys was seen in the same bottom, among which was one bird almost pure white in color.

A NEW cotton-picking machine has been invented and patented, which, it is claimed, fulfills all the conditions required of such an arrangement. It is the work of a Georgia inventor, Owen T. Dugg, and, though perfected too late to do any work on the late crop, will be put in the field to test its capacity on the next one.

THE deepest boring yet made is said to be at Schladebach, near the line between Teispic and Corbetta. It has been made by the Prussian Government for the purpose of ascertaining the presence of coal, and was bored with diamond drills. Its depth is 1,390 meters, or 4,500 feet, its breadth at the bottom two inches, and at the top eleven inches. The temperature at the bottom indicates 118 degrees Fahrenheit.

CHARLES MILLER was talking about the persecuted laborers one afternoon recently at Cincinnati to a crowd of strikers, and accidentally vented some socialistic ideas. Suddenly Thomas Gorman, a son of Erin, stepped up and asked: "Are you of them socialists?" "I am, my friend, and you are." But the representative of socialism failed to proceed, as a six-ton sledgehammer blow fell on his mouth, and he was carried to the hospital.

GRANT SHAW had a peculiar adventure the other day, near Confluence, Pa. He was walking through a patch of timber, when a familiar sound of a turkey gobble came to his ears. Going in the direction from which the sound came, and imitating the gobble, he soon came upon a large flock of wild turkeys, which were walking in his direction, being attracted by his call. When the turkeys observed their deceiver they immediately began an indiscriminate attack upon him, Grant had a hard fight with them for several minutes, but succeeded finally in escaping with two of the turkeys under his arms.

ROME and Naples have hitherto been the cheapest cities in the world as far as cab hire is concerned. London will now step to the front in that matter. Three thousand new cabs are to be put on the streets. The fare will be ten cents a mile, and it is not to be put in a glass box after the fashion of the cash receptacles in our abbreviated terminal street cars. There will be a speaking-tube from the passenger to the driver, and the wild waving of an umbrella or cane will be after this unnecessary. The cab doors can be opened by the cabbie without leaving his box, and the cabbie himself will be dressed in a janty livery.

ANOTHER effective advertising scheme has been invented in England. A leading confectioner was ordered to put up 10,000 tin boxes of candy, hermetically sealed, with an advertisement of a cheap watch in each box, and in some of the boxes, in addition thereto, a coupon entitling the finder to one of the watches. On the occasion of the Oxford and Cambridge boat race the 10,000 water-tight boxes were thrown into the river, to be fished and grappled and raked for by anybody who thought it worth while to take so much trouble to get the sweets, and possibly a watch. No little excitement and talk was caused, and the object of the enterprising watch vender—the getting of much advertising—was fully attained.

THE latest novelty in Chicago is the "rainbow party." The young ladies wear little aprons with the bottom left unhemmed. Every young lady has a number, and these numbers are placed in a box. The gentlemen buy tickets and draw from the box. After all the young men have found the aprons, or rather the young ladies wearing the proper aprons, the master of ceremony announces the conditions. The young men are to hem the aprons, and the one doing the neatest, quickest, and most careful piece of work is to receive a prize. The young ladies supply their aprons with needles and thread, and at the call of time the fun begins with the efforts of the contestants to thread their needles. The prizes are sometimes quite valuable. The aprons are raffled off after the prizes are awarded, and sometimes fetch big prices.

CATCHING A SHARK.

In 1874 I was mate of a coasting schooner voyaging between Charleston, Beaufort, Savannah, and other points on the Northern coast. She was built at Charleston, and I went out on the first voyage. The name of her captain was Marlin, an easy-going, good natured man, and we had three men before the mast.

We left Charleston in the afternoon, and were scarcely clear of the bar when a monster shark was observed in our wake. There are always sharks in plenty in Charleston harbor, and this chap would not have received much notice except for his size and the grim, persistent manner in which he followed us. He ranged upon the starboard quarter, not more than ten feet away, and there he stuck. When we had made our offing and set our course, the captain determined to get rid of the unpleasant visitor. When a sailor sees a shark following his ship he feels as a landman would if a wolf was pursuing his carriage. The shark is there to eat you, if opportunity occurs, and you feel a spirit of revenge stirring you up to get rid of him.

We had a big shark hook on board, and after the decks had been cleared we brought it out, baited it with a chunk of pork, and the morsel was dropped overboard and the rope paid out until the pork was right at the shark's nose. He refused to touch it. Sharks are always hungry, and sharks aren't a bit particular whether they eat pork or sailor, but this fellow seemed to know that we had formed a conspiracy to destroy him. We made up a dummy and carried it aloft and heaved it overboard with a great outcry, but that trick also failed. The shark paid no attention to the splash, but kept his wicked eyes on the man at the wheel, and remained where we first discovered him.

We had a slow passage down to the inlet, and as we entered it the shark suddenly disappeared. We went up to Beaufort, unloaded a part of our cargo, took on some cotton, and came down again, and we had scarcely crossed the bar when the big fish again took his position on the starboard quarter. It was the same when we went into Savannah and the same at Brunswick, and we dropped him again off Charleston as we returned after an absence of two weeks. We tried every way known to sailors to drive the fellow off, but he wouldn't budge. At Charleston the captain consulted a colored clairvoyant, and she told him about an ounce of pink salve and told him he must buy a yellow dog, grease its paws with the salve, and use the dog to bait the shark hook. He paid $2 for the salve, and was a whole day finding a yellow dog. One was finally discovered following a colored man about, and an offer of $8 made him our dog. On this occasion we left Charleston just at daybreak, having been in the harbor three days. As day fully dawned we picked up our old enemy, and all hands willingly turned up to see what luck we would have with the new bait. We grasped the paws of the dog, and he at once began to howl in the most dismal manner. You'd have believed from his actions that he knew what was coming. When we had lashed him fast to the hook we found that the shark had neared the ship by several feet, and that he seemed to be a bit nervous.

Well, when all was ready over went the dog, and he had scarcely touched the water when the shark had him. He had dog, hook and all at one snap, and started to make a skip when the hook brought him up. We took the line to the captain and walked the old chap alongside, and when we had his head out of water we fired two charges of buckshot into it. We then drew him inboard and finished him off, and after breakfast we felt to and slit him open to see what sort of cargo he carried. There was the dog, swallowed almost whole, a human hand, a beef bone, the heel of a boot, a pint bottle, two feet of small chain, a score of buttons, a silver-plated table knife and two iron spoons and several other trifles which he had picked up while cruising around and waiting for us to come out. We hove him over after the examination, and though the schooner ran on that same route for the ensuing eleven months, none of us sighted a shark, large or small. The greased dog business seemed to have given the whole fraternity a valuable hint.—New York Sun.

Is Your Liver out of Order. Then is your whole system deranged—the blood is impure, the breath offensive, you have a headache, feel languid, dispirited and nervous, have no appetite, your sleep is troubled and unrefreshing. To prevent a more serious condition, take at once a half tablet of Simmonds Liver Regulator, three times a day—it will soon restore the healthy action of the liver, bowels and kidneys. "I recommend Simmonds Liver Regulator to all my friends, as I have personally known it to cure all liver disorders and sick headache." A. MANNING, Beverly, N. J.

Loran, to erect a two story frame house on lot 27, Wilf's first addition, to cost $1,500.

The Knights of Labor, recognizing the perilous character of the boycott, are struggling nobly to place it under the absolute control of the central board. A wise idea. We are told by the historian of the Ku Klux-klan that it was originally organized to intimidate criminals, but in the hands of reckless and unscrupulous persons who could not be restrained, it soon developed into a vast engine of murder and oppression, directed by criminals. The power of the boycott in unscrupulous hands would work such injustice that public sentiment would speedily overthrow it and the organization which had brought it to the front.

He was a substantial farmer, a staunch democrat and an excellent citizen and neighbor. His home is on the New Haven turnpike and from there his funeral occurs to-morrow morning. The services will be held at the cathedral, at 10 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Oeschterling officiating.

Our exchanges have during the last few days been venting a good deal of spleen on Mr. Cleveland because as a citizen he chooses to get married after his own inclination, without either consulting or inviting correspondents. In the midst of their murmurings there is a great deal of nonsense. These fellows may not know it, and the managing editors of the "great dailies" surely do not, but it is a fact that the infamous manner in which many writers for the press have pursued Mr. Cleveland and Miss Folsom has disgusted millions of readers. The president is justified in the popular mind at feeling a deep sentiment against the journalistic scoundrels who for several weeks past have done violence to the decency of life and insulted a sensitive young lady by their empty and offensive garrulity. It is a shame and a reproach to modern journalism, the manner in which some leading newspapers have prostituted their columns to low gossip.

Hon. Eli W. Brown, of Columbia City, is here in attendance on the United States court. Mr. Brown says he is still the joint senator from Allen and Whitley counties and as yet sees no reason to resign that place, inasmuch as he is not postmaster. His right to the postoffice is in jeopardy in the senate. He is but the president's expressed choice for the place. It is believed he has already declined the proffered confirmation as postmaster.

Mr. J. R. Bittinger is announced to-day as a one term candidate for county recorder. Jake, as he is familiarly called, has lived here all his life, and in every sphere he has made friends. The Sentinel has from time to time commended Mr. Bittinger for his fearless course as assistant prosecutor. Faithful in that trust he can be relied on as faithful to all trusts. No man can question his competency, no man can question his integrity, and his honesty and integrity are above reproach. Mr. Bittinger goes into the race with much prestige and a strong following of warm friends.

A BOLD JOB.

A Lafayette Township Farmer Pitched From a Train and Robbed.

John McClave is a wealthy farmer, residing in Lafayette township, Allen county, a few miles east of Roanoke. Some time ago he went to Texas to visit a daughter, who is ill with consumption, and together they started home via the Wabash. They took a sleeper and were pursuing their journey, says the Huntington Democrat, when one evening both retired and in the morning the daughter awoke and not finding her father, supposed that he was yet asleep, but as he did not appear after some time had elapsed, a search was made and his berth was found empty. He could not be found on the train, neither had any of the train men seen him. The woman was almost crazed, and at the first station left the train, while telegrams were sent back asking that a search be made. Finally a response was received stating that he had been found lying near the track in an unconscious condition and that his pockets had been rifled of all his money and valuables. He was cared for and the friends at home telegraphed. The eldest son, at last accounts, had gone to his father and yesterday conveyed him home.

CRACKED A SAFE.

The Store of W. W. Fox & Son, in Nebraska, is Visited.

There is unquestionably a gang of crooks in the city. They went into the general store of W. W. Fox & Son, in Nebraska, shortly after midnight and blew the safe open. They piled flour sacks about the iron box to deaden the report of the explosion and then drilled through the combination lock. The task was light, and without detection they forced the safe open and made off with something over $50 in cash and a bundle of valuable papers, such as notes and mortgages. Mr. Fox lives just adjoining the store, but never heard a thing, so nicely the fellows worked.

Officer Singleton is on that beat and discovered the robbery at 2:30. He notified Captain Dohl and a search was instituted without avail as yet. The rascals selected a good place to take advantage of an officer. Mr. Singleton's beat extends from Jefferson street to the Muncie railroad, in Nebraska and it is pretty hard to cover that territory save in a balloon. The men were seen in the vicinity yesterday and last night, but people supposed they were railroaders. There were three or four of them and they carried a dinner bucket for a blind.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, God has, with His infinite wisdom, seen fit to close the earthly labors of our friend Mrs. Flora D. Metcalf Thomas, and has, as we believe, called her to her reward and,

WHEREAS, We feel a desire to testify our appreciation of her virtues and character;

Lafayette will have two candidates for the nomination for supreme judge—Thomas B. Ward, congressman, and John R. Coffroth, a very able attorney.

They're Not Sorry.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.
